

Green Tent in Spring: Monterey, California

Beneath the shifting swimming pool light,
breath blossoms on your lips and expires,
empty, wet on the walls.
This hesitant time of year hangs over our heads.
Outside a bird serenades this chill bubble,
serenades the same morning.